

User agreements

Information, software, products and services that have been compiled on this platform may be out of date or may include omissions, unnecessary and other errors. Contacting technical support ensures that the platform works without error. As stated in the agreement between you and Optisoft24.com, all information and services are provided with a warranty of any kind. Optisoft24 can never be held liable for any direct, indirect, inconvenient, special or consequential damages or damages due to loss of profits, revenue and data. The access you get to the platform should not be used in multiple clinics. One order for one office. By accessing or using this platform, Optisoft24 reserves the right to change or upgrade the platform at any time without notice